

DANB's Code of Professional Conduct

The Dental Assisting National Board, Inc. (DANB) established DANB's Code of Professional Conduct to promote quality and ethical practice, and to assist DANB Individuals* in understanding their ethical responsibilities to patients, employers, professional colleagues, the healthcare profession, and the public. All DANB Individuals must abide by DANB's Code of Professional Conduct and must maintain high standards of ethics and excellence in all areas of professional endeavor.

DANB's Code of Professional Conduct represents the minimum standard of professional behavior to which all DANB Individuals should adhere. DANB certificants, those seeking certification through DANB, and those who have applied for or passed DANB or OSAP-DANB national exams are subject to review under DANB's Disciplinary Policy & Procedures for violation of any tenet of DANB's Code of Professional Conduct.

DANB's Disciplinary Policy & Procedures is available on DANB's website at www.danb.org. DANB's Disciplinary Policy & Procedures addresses appropriate professional conduct with greater detail and specificity. DANB requires all DANB Individuals to review and uphold the tenets described in both documents.

Violating DANB's Code of Professional Conduct, including but not limited to commission of any act specifically prohibited in DANB's Disciplinary Policy & Procedures, may result in disciplinary action.

Individual Autonomy and Respect for Others

DANB Individuals have a duty to respect the individuality, humanity and autonomy of all people.

DANB Individuals shall:

- Respect the autonomy of each person to decide from and among treatment options, including the refusal of treatment
- Respect the legal and personal rights, dignity, and privacy of their colleagues and all patients in whose treatment they assist
- Maintain professional boundaries in relationships with colleagues and patients

Health and Well-Being of Patients and Colleagues

DANB Individuals have a duty to refrain from harming others. DANB Individuals have a duty to protect the health and well-being of patients and colleagues.

DANB Individuals shall:

- Act in the best interests of each patient
- Make patient health and safety the first and most important consideration in all actions and decisions
- Undertake assignments only when qualified to competently perform the assignments
- Respect the health and safety of themselves, colleagues, and patients
- Practice without impairment from substances, cognitive deficiency, or mental illness
- Perform all duties designed to protect themselves and others from workplace hazards
- Enhance professional competency through continuous learning and incorporate new knowledge into the performance of delegated services
- Report the potentially dangerous acts of others in the workplace or in other professional settings

* DANB Individuals is an inclusive term that refers to all DANB or OSAP-DANB exam applicants, DANB or OSAP-DANB exam candidates, DANB or OSAP-DANB certificants and those who hold DANB certificates of knowledge-based competence. See Definitions section for additional detail.

Justice and Fairness

DANB Individuals have a duty to treat all people fairly.

DANB Individuals shall:

- Behave in a manner free from bias or discrimination on any basis when providing oral healthcare services
- Behave ethically, without any undisclosed conflicts of interest in the workplace or in other professional settings
- Report unethical acts of others in the workplace or in other professional settings

Truth

DANB Individuals have a duty to communicate truthfully.

DANB Individuals shall:

- Conduct themselves with honesty and integrity at all times
- Provide patients with complete, truthful, and accurate assessment(s) of problems and potential treatments, including associated risks and benefits, within the DANB Individual's authorized scope of practice

Confidentiality

DANB Individuals have a duty to respect the right to confidentiality of each patient.

DANB Individuals shall:

- Maintain patient confidentiality
- Safeguard all confidential patient and practice information

Duty and Responsibility to Profession, Community, and Society

DANB Individuals have a duty to know and act within the law and to assist others to act within the law.

DANB Individuals shall:

- Maintain knowledge of all laws, rules, and regulations that govern the specific healthcare profession of which they are a part
- Comply with the state dental practice act related rules and regulations, and any other local, state, and federal statutes that promote public health and safety, in each state in which the DANB Individual is practicing
- Refuse to perform duties that violate any applicable state dental practice act, related rules and regulations, and any other local, state, and federal statutes or any other applicable governmental guidance
- Report to the appropriate individual or entity (e.g., employer, state board of dentistry, state department of environmental protection, state bureau of radiological health) the violation of any applicable state dental practice act, related rules and regulations, and/or any other local, state, or federal statutes

DANB Definitions

The term DANB or OSAP-DANB certificant refers to those holding a certification (e.g., those holding DANB CDA or other DANB certification, OSAP-DANB DISIPC or CDIPC certification).

The term DANB or OSAP-DANB exam candidate refers to those individuals who have applied for and are qualified to take any DANB or OSAP-DANB exam but who have not yet taken an exam. DANB has contracts with state regulatory bodies to develop, administer and score state-specific dental assisting exams. DANB's Code of Professional Conduct applies to individuals taking these exams as well, as long as a particular state Code of Professional Conduct, if one exists, does not supersede DANB's Code of Professional Conduct. For a complete list of DANB state-specific exams, go to www.danb.org, and click on Meet State Requirements.

The term DANB certificate of knowledge-based competence holder refers to those individuals who have passed any DANB exam for which a certificate of knowledge-based competence is issued.
